Prof. Galbraith to Talk At Post Book Luncheon

John Kenneth Galbraith, Warburg Professor of Economics at Harvard and former Ambassador to India (1961-63), will speak at The Washington Post Book and Author Luncheon scheduled for 12:30 p.m., Jan. 23 at the Statler Hilton.

Galbraith has taught economics at the University of California, Princeton, Cambridge University in England, and at Harvard. At Harvard he initiated a seminar on economic development which since has been added to the curriculums of other leading academic institutions.

In the election campaigns of 1952-56, Galbraith served as adviser to Adlai Stevenson, and in 1956 he was appointed Chairman of the Economic Advisory Committee of the Democratic Advisory Council.

As Ambassador to India, Galbraith was credited for the quick American and British reaction to the Chinese invasion, and thus, in the eyes of Indians, as largely responsible for the ceasefire.

Sharing the platform with Ambassador Galbraith will be

Ellen Proxmire, author of "One Foot in Washington" and wife of the Wisconsin Senator, and Allen Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency and author of "The Craft of Intelligence."

Tickets to the Book and Author Luncheon $3.75 each, can be obtained at the front counter of The Washington Post and at the following bookstores: Airport, Chevy Chase; Better Mouse Trap, Alexandria; Brentano's; Center, Bethesda; Cucumber, Bethesda; Doubleday; Francis Scott Key; Franz Bader's, Hecht's, Kann's, Paul Pearlman's, Savile, Sidney Kramer's, Woodward & Lothrop, and World Affairs.
